“A case study handbook, Reach out campaigns and multiplier events across Europe”

The CONTINUE project comes to its end, leaving in the territories involved new relationships built, new tools accessible and new awareness of how the pandemic has impacted the lives of young people in Europe:

- Mental health and wellbeing – high levels of anxiety, poor mental health, decline in physical health;
- Education and careers – disengagement with education, damaged career prospects;
- Social issues and inequalities – exacerbation and amplification of existing inequalities (e.g. poverty and disability) and social issues

Thanks to the transnational cooperation between youth organisations, CONTINUE contributed to European youth policies by bringing up individual experiences and needs and improving the dialogue between young people and European organisations.

The “Reach-Out Campaign” Guidelines

To inform and raise awareness in society, a Pan-European and local reach-out campaigns in Italy, Portugal, United Kingdom, Germany, Hungary and Lithuania have been implemented, thanks to a transnational training course that took place in Copenhagen.

A collection of tips, procedures and strategies for those who want to design awareness-raising campaigns to maximise their scope and implication of their social actions are gathered in the Reach-Out Campaign Guidelines.

The case study handbook of CONTINUE project

A case study handbook has been created to describe the main actions and results of the project, offering an overview of all the pieces that made up the whole picture. Each paragraph refers to a project's phase and its relevant results produced. The last section reports case studies from the eight European communities involved.

The final international and local multiplier events

To celebrate and maximize the impact of CONTINUE project 8 local multiplier events and 1 Pan-European multiplier event have been implemented across Europe. They gave us the opportunity to share the outputs developed with a large target group offering testimonies, presenting outputs and proposing workshops.
